

EMV Product Update

As we all know, October is the beginning of the U.S. shift to the new payment standards supporting EMV. In an effort to provide resources for yourself and for your customers, we have created the following educational materials:

- > Website: General Merchant Information
- > Video: What EMV Means
- > Sales Sheet: What is EMV and how it works

To simplify the available product information we have split the content into what is available for existing merchants and what is available for new merchants. Click here to download the list of EMV solutions for existing and new merchants.

The information below provides a general overview of what is coming and when, but details for these products is also critical to provide. In order to provide consistent product updates – including timing and capabilities – we are building an EVO product catalog website called EVO Marketplace. We are in the process of getting our EMV products published into the Marketplace and expect this to be completed and live on Friday this week to be found at marketplace.evopayments.us/product-category/terminals/

We thank you for your patience as we continue to work together to bring EMV-enabled solutions to market.

Thanks,

U.S. Product Organization
